

The present invention provides a VPN edge router with the ability of identifying VPNs by using the identifiers of logical channels multiplexed on a single input line.

The present invention provides a VPN edge router with the ability of identifying VPNs by using the identifiers of logical channels multiplexed on a single input line.